IAG Cargo announces new appointments

LONDON/MADRID: November 27, 2017. IAG Cargo has today announced a number of key changes to its executive team to align with its business priorities. These include the creation of new roles as well as the expansion of existing responsibilities among the team.

The new look executive team is charged with driving performance across premium products, digital transformation, customer service and global operations following robust Q3 results.

These changes, effective 1st December, include:

- The move by Commercial Director, David Shepherd to the newly created role of Director of Digital Ventures
- Welcoming the new Director of Sales, Marketing and Product, Camilo Garcia, to the IAG Cargo Executive Team
- The creation of a new Director of Worldwide Operations role, which will be filled by Lynn McClelland, who now has overall accountability for global operations outside of Spain

IAG Cargo's CEO Lynne Embleton, in announcing the executive team reorganization, said: "We have ambitious plans for the next few years and I believe our new structure, new positions and new talent will put us in a strong position to achieve the transformational changes we want to make for our customers and our business.

She added: "The newly created role of Director of Digital Ventures will be crucial in ensuring that we're taking strategic action in response to the opportunities that technology can bring to our industry. With David's deep experience within the business, he is well placed to take the lead on this new focus. Meanwhile, I am delighted to announce that Lynn McClelland will be adding regional operations and customer service to her recent London and Dublin responsibilities, giving her global oversight of our operations. Finally, Camilo's talent and knowledge of the business will be invaluable as we welcome him to the executive team as Director of Sales, Marketing and Product."
