ALHA Group opens new cargo terminal at Rome Fiumicino

ROME: June 17, 2017. ALHA Group, the Italian leader in the Air Cargo sector, has presented the new Cargo Terminal at Rome Fiumicino Airport, completing the investment and reorganization work being carried out in the last 12 months at the Roman airport.

The services offered at the renewed Fiumicino Cargo Terminal are listed according to the most stringent ALHA standards, particularly in the field of safety and management of controlled temperature products.

To meet the needs of Special Cargo products, and in particular to guarantee the protection of high-value goods, the new Cargo Terminal Alha is equipped with a new team of 16 certified security agents, dedicated to 24-hour supervision And 7 days a week. Secure Storage is the new secure storage area for high value added products, protected by alarm devices, dedicated video surveillance and the latest generation anti-intrusion systems.

The Roman market is characterized by significant volumes of temperature controlled goods, whose management imposes important operational challenges, especially during the summer months: with the new Cool Center ALHA now offers over 150 sqm. of areas dedicated to the management of refrigerated products, qualified personnel And dedicated, temperature ranges between -20 ° C and + 25 ° C and 24-hour and 7-day temperature alarm / control systems.

"For ALHA, the inauguration of the new fully renovated Cargo Terminal is a new starting point," said Lorenzo Schettini Gherardini, Managing Director of the Alha Group. "Rome Fiumicino Airport is particularly important and strategic in the Italian infrastructure system. Even the Cargo at this point is experiencing a new vitality. We have therefore decided to equip our terminal with some facilities particularly suited to customers who insist on Fiumicino, to try to respond to the demand for services for Special Cargo products, which we hope can - and with our support - to consolidate and grow over time."

ALHA, the Air Lines Handling Agent, is the leading Italian Group in the Air Cargo Handling and Rubber Freight sectors. Present throughout the country, the ALHA Group has developed an important presence at the Rome Fiumicino Airport over the years.

Present for 20 years in the Cargo City of Milan Malpensa, it has a network of 12 capillary storage centers located throughout the country.
