

PRESS RELEASE

Woodland Group offers free business health check with Irish expansion

CORK: October 30, 2017. The UK supply chain specialist Woodland Group is offering “no strings” logistics consulting with the opening of new warehouse facilities in Lehanaghmore, Cork.

Hurling legend Séan Óg O hAilpín, who is assisting Woodland Group settle into the South West, said he was very happy to welcome the logistics specialists to Cork. “To join Woodland Group in launching their new offices in Cork is a great occasion. As a Cork man, I’m delighted to assist them as they embark on providing a dedicated service to local businesses in South West.”

As part of their offering, Woodland Group will be offering a free health check to all businesses in the South West. The initiative looks at the business logistics activities and assesses how to both improve efficiency and increase profitability.

Pamila Coughlan, Business Development Manager Woodland Group Ireland explained that their consultative approach to business is what sets Woodland apart from their competitors;

“We are offering a free business health check to for businesses that are interested in analyzing their current logistics efficiencies. This is a no strings consultation that we hope will benefit businesses as they navigate their logistics planning.

I look forward to working with local businesses on their logistical needs and ensuring we continue to provide first class service to new and existing customers’, she concluded.

Kevin Brady, Managing Director Woodland Group Ireland said he is excited to bring their global range of products and services to Munster.

“As global markets present themselves, there is a growing need for competent logistic solutions that can enhance established trade routes and help penetrate emerging markets. Woodland Group is well poised to fulfil this need with a strong, flexible global network that has the skilled workforce to support our customers fully. Our core values focus heavily on product knowledge, service and operational excellence.

“Our increasing expansion marks an exciting new chapter for the Woodland Group and believe our renowned tailor-made solutions will offer clear and meaningful benefits to those involved in the industry”

Established in 1988, Woodland Group is an independent global freight forwarding and supply chain specialist that provides a full catalogue of logistic options including ocean freight, airfreight, European distribution, value added services, contract logistics, UK distribution, warehousing, fulfillment, 3PL, supply chain management, reverse logistics and Customs consultancy.